Thank you for your interest in participating as a guest on our Lead to Soar! Podcast. We take our members' and listeners' needs regarding leadership and career development very seriously, so please help us help them by completing this guest application.

About Lead to Soar

Lead to Soar is a multi-platform resource for ambitious women on a leadership journey.

Lead to Soar is an online network, a podcast and in-person leadership summits for women across the globe. We provide women with critical leadership skill development experiences that they may be unable to access in their workplace.

We support women in 3 ways:

Our platform is for ambitious, driven women and goes beyond confidence building, assertiveness, and the typical career advice given to women. That means we are serious about business and financial skills. We are here to enable and empower women to advance their careers, salaries, networks, and influence.

Podcast Hosts

Mel Butcher

Mel Butcher is a speaker, creator and consultant with over 15 years of professional experience. Mel co-leads Lead to Soar, an organisation with a mission to close the gender leadership gap using research-backed methods.

Michelle Redfern

Michelle Redfern is a globally recognised gender equality, diversity and inclusion strategist. She advises organisations in the business and sporting sectors on DEI strategy development and implementation and works directly with women leaders to advance their careers.

Kindly fill out this application and send it to either michelle@leadtosoar.network or mel@leadtosoar.network. We receive numerous requests to feature on our show; therefore, although we appreciate your interest, applying does not guarantee a spot on the show.
